FOREWORD

Corporate reporting excellence is increasingly important as a competitive advantage and a metrics for measuring investment quality among companies operating in the global marketplace.

First established in 1990 by Bursa Malaysia Berhad, the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (MIA) and The Malaysian Institute of Certified Public Accountants (MICPA), the National Annual Corporate Report Awards manifests its enduring objective of recognising and rewarding companies for corporate reporting excellence in Malaysia.

To ensure relevance, the NACRA is carefully aligned with global and local developments in corporate reporting, particularly the shift towards adopting Sustainability Reporting. With the increased global relevance and acceptance of Sustainability Reporting, NACRA has been advocating for the integration of sustainability disclosures into corporate reporting to future-proof companies and businesses and support long-term value creation.

NACRA's emphasis on sustainability is harmonised with Bursa Malaysia's 2022 initiative to enhance the Sustainability Reporting Framework by implementing and/or mandating disclosures, followed by the issuance of enhanced Listing Requirements for Main Market and ACE Market in 2023.

At the same time, the NACRA seeks to drive improvements in qualitative corporate reporting to fulfil investor expectations for increased transparency in corporate reporting, with an emphasis on non-financial aspects of disclosure. To this end, NACRA continuously advocates for companies to strengthen integration of financial and non-financial information in corporate reporting practices and tell a complete yet concise story of their value creation.

Moving forward, we hope that NACRA's guidance along with adherence to the NACRA structure and assessment criteria will further drive the quality of disclosures in order to improve the information made available to investors, whilst embedding a culture of value creation and sustainability among organisations in Malaysia.

On behalf of NACRA, we warmly welcome your participation. Thank you for your support in realising the objectives of NACRA 2024.
